

Christmas Tree Farms in Kentucky

OUR GATES ARE OPEN FOR YOU - KY Christmas Tree Farms

```
//change the text below to reflect your own, var before="Christmas Day" var current="Today is Christmas Day! Did you get your tree?"
var montharray=new Array("Jan","Feb","Mar","Apr","May","Jun","Jul","Aug","Sep","Oct","Nov","Dec") function countdown(yr,m,d){ var today=new Date()
var todayy=today.getYear()
if (todayy < 1000)
todayy+=1900
var todaym=today.getMonth()
var todayd=today.getDate() var todaystring=montharray[todaym]+" "+todayd+" "+todayy var futurestring=montharray[m-1]+" "+d+" "+yr var difference=(Math.round((Date.parse(futurestring)-Date.parse(todaystring))/(24*60*60*1000))*1)
if (difference==0)
document.write(current) else if (difference>0)
document.write("Only "+difference+" days until "+before)
}
//enter the count down date using the format year/month/day countdown(2008,12,25)
```

Around the third week in November, the farmers of the Kentucky Christmas Tree Association open their gates, barns, and fields to folks who appreciate the experience of cutting a fresh, homegrown Christmas tree. A tree grown and nurtured in Kentucky soil, with Kentucky hands. There's a lot of talk these days about the environment and going "green"; We smile a little bit at that because we've always been green. We've always appreciated Kentucky's rich agricultural history and are doing everything we can to pass that torch on to the next generation of growers. For many families, an outing to the nearest Christmas tree farm marks the official start of the Christmas season. Friends gather. Meals are shared. Decorations are brought down from the attic. Traditions are revisited. We're honored to be a part of that. To our faithful customers, we thank you. We value your business and your friendship.

To those folks who have never visited a Christmas tree farm, we invite you to start a new tradition with us. Put on your coat and hat, bring your camera and a friend. Spend some time walking in our fields, taking in the scenery, while you find the perfect tree. We've walked the tree rows hundreds of times ourselves and never get tired of it. It's good for the soul. Our gates are open for you.